This Week's Highlights and What's to Come

Thank you all so much for attending conferences and sharing so much valuable information, so that we can continue to work together closely as a team. This week we introduced Lily , our next Superkid, and are continuing to work on decoding words daily. During journal writing time, each child is expected to work more and more independently according to individual abilities. Our goal is to build each child's confidence, in order for them to take more risks and accomplish more successes. In Math, we are working on greater than, less than, addition, number lines, money , and time. In Social Studies, we will be discussing types of communication from long ago until present times. Please continue to work on their doubles facts and sight word cards at home, in order for them to move along at a quicker pace. Shabbat Shalom!

Hebrew and Judaic News

Dear Parents,

This week we learned about the letters "aleph" and "ayin"- usually in Israel, these two letters are very hard to write. I was so surprised and happy that all the children wrote the letters without a problem . We also learned that few words begin with these letters, and reviewed the words we had already learned in the past.

Like every week, we played together , sang, and did kabalat shabbat with the Pre-K.

Shabbat Shalom!
